The International Marketing programme provides advanced training in dealing with the topic of how to make a product stand out in the market and covers issues on what influences and inspires consumers. The programme is structured to prepare students for managing change and development related to marketing. To this end, it deals with various parts of marketing research and to communicate offerings to internationally diverse target groups, through traditional advertising as well as more recent avenues in digital and social media.

The programme consists of seven mandatory courses held over two semesters, as described in the table below. The curriculum has been designed to prepare the student for work in international environments, specifically within the area of marketing. The first semester has a broader and more foundational approach to marketing. The program starts with courses in Consumer Behaviour and Contemporary Issues in International Marketing, familiarizing students with current issues and trends in the lives and practices of consumers and professional marketing managers respectively. The semester continues with courses in Marketing Research and Marketing Communications in a Digital World. The second and final semester of the program focuses more specifically on the international dimensions in marketing. Courses in Applied International Marketing and Globalization of Economic Activity prepare students for marketing work in a globalized market place and in multinational corporations. During the second semester, students write a 15 credit thesis in parallel to their coursework. The thesis in business administration should cover a topic of international marketing.

All courses are taught in English. Thanks to the international profile of Jönköping International Business School students on the programme will interact with peers from all over the world. The international atmosphere is reinforced by the programme's international subject matter, in particular its consideration of marketing that crosses borders.

Programme level

On the programme level students elect student programme evaluators to represent the student group. The student representatives and the programme directors meet regularly to discuss courses and the progress of the programme. The representatives stay in contact with course coordinators to share the overall impression and student experiences from courses; in addition, the Programme Director leads quality assurance work together with a programme group (faculty) and an advisory board (corporate representatives).

Course level

On the course level, student evaluators and course coordinators meet shortly after the course has started. The purpose is to ensure that the course is working well and if necessary make minor changes. After each course is finished all students perform course evaluations on Ping-Pong, and programme developers evaluate the course on the aggregate level and communicate with programme director and course responsible.
